ORDER

In the above referenced cases, the provisions of Amended General Order #2002-01 governing the "Number and Filing of Copies" of memoranda of law and "Appendices and/or Exhibits" are suspended and replaced by the following:

Number and Filing of Copies

1. The only memoranda that may be filed are a memorandum in support of the motion or other matter to which it relates, a memorandum in opposition, and a reply memorandum. No other memoranda may be filed without prior leave of the Court.

2. Unless permitted by the Court, for good cause shown, memoranda in support and memoranda in opposition shall not exceed 15 pages; or, in the case of motions to dismiss and motions for summary judgment, 35 pages. Reply memoranda shall not exceed 10 pages. Any request to exceed these page limits shall be in the form of a motion, but the proposed memorandum shall not be filed unless and until the request is granted.

3. All memoranda shall be filed in triplicate. The original shall be retained in the Court file, along with the motion or other document to which it relates. The two copies of the memorandum shall be transmitted by the clerk directly to the chambers of the judge to whom the case has been assigned along with a copy of the motion or other document to which it relates.

Appendices and/or Exhibits

Unless requested by the Court, appendices and/or exhibits attached to or filed in connection with a motion for summary judgment shall not exceed a total of 75 pages in addition to the statement of undisputed facts required by the Local Rules. The statement of undisputed facts shall not exceed 15 pages. With respect to all other motions, appendices and/or exhibits shall not exceed a total of 10 pages in the aggregate.
